

Just Another Nice Day

If you're looking for an earthquake, a flood, a mud slide, a hurricane, a tornado, or a blizzard you've come to the wrong place. You see, in El Paso, Texas, our weather is almost perfect. No endless days of suffocating humidity, no weeks of pouring rain, no months of arctic temperatures. Just one nice day after another.

Protected by the Franklin Mountains, caressed by the sun, El Paso doesn't make news because of its weather. Truth is that the sun shines over 300 days a year here. Low humidity and moderate rainfall combine with warm temperatures to create a year-round climate unlike anywhere else.

For El Pasoans, quality of life doesn't end with warm desert days and cool breezy nights. With an affordable cost of living and a highly skilled labor pool, we shine with activities like an acclaimed symphony orchestra, stage groups, museums and historic places, professional sports and rodeo.

If you're considering a move, we can give you a better idea of the opportunities that await you. Come to El Paso, where the future is bright.

FLOODS 1800 miles

EARTHQUAKES 825 miles

TORNADOES 750 miles

BLIZZARDS 615 miles

MUD SLIDES 1100 miles

El Paso:

The New Old West

Call the City of El Paso Department of Economic Development at (915) 533-4284 or The Greater El Paso Chamber of Commerce at (915) 533-0523.